Protecting against spam, viruses, and malware

MailGuard is different to traditional antivirus. Most businesses think traditional antivirus software will protect them from an attack, but that's simply not the case. MailGuard's Hybrid Artificial Intelligence Threat Detection engines are predicting, learning and anticipating new threats as they begin circulating. A pure-cloud security solution, there's no software to install, and no updates to maintain the highest levels of protection 24-7.

MailGuard works collaboratively with Microsoft, developing its solution to integrate seamlessly with Microsoft solutions.

MailGuard stops fastbreaking, zero-day threats 2-48 hrs ahead of competitors

"For Microsoft, delivering not only the best, but also the most secure technology to help people connect and collaborate across the globe is at the core of our mission. In MailGuard, we have a partner who leads the world in protecting the vital IP that helps power the digital economy. We are truly excited to work together to help ensure that people and organisations across the globe can get more done, securely."

—Steve Miller, Director, Education, Microsoft
